Dress Code

Male UAE nationals wear traditional attire known as kandora or dishdasha. Female UAE nationals wear a black robe known as abaya, over their clothing, and cover their head with a scarf, known as shayla. Muslim expatriates often wear their native country's traditional attire, while non-Muslim expatriates are dressed in western attire.

In respect of the UAE culture and religion, expatriates in Abu Dhabi are advised to dress conservatively when in public. In consideration of the culture and climate, below are some clothing guidelines for expatriates:

- Men should always wear a shirt in public.
- Women should keep their shoulders covered, preferably wearing long or short-sleeve tops, and wear loose fitting slacks, long skirts or dresses.
- Women should avoid exposing their knees or having low-cut necklines.
- Shorts are generally not acceptable for men or women in public areas.
- Preferred clothing should be generally lightweight.
- During the winter months, warmer clothing (long sleeves, sweaters and jackets) are recommended for the cool evenings and early morning hours.
- Professionals are expected to wear slacks or trousers with a short- or long-sleeved shirt, depending on the season. Suits or jackets may be worn to work in the business community.

Men should wear a long-sleeve dress shirt (normally with tie), slacks and avoid open-toed shoes. National dress is acceptable

UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

The following section provides a brief introduction to the United Arab Emirates. There are many additional sources of information on-line and a listing of links are noted at the end of this section. Additionally, we would encourage you to visit the very helpful link provided by the government at the UAE Government Web Site.

- Geography

The UAE has a very strategic location in the Middle East region of Asia, at the tip of the Arabian Peninsula. It is bordered by the Arabian Gulf in the north, Oman and Gulf of Oman in the east and bordered by Saudi Arabia in the south.

- History

The UAE was founded on December 2, 1971 by the late His Highness Sheikh Zayed Bin Sultan Al Nahayan. The UAE is a founding member of the Gulf Co-operation Council (GCC). The capital of the UAE is Abu Dhabi; which is the center of the current President His Highness Sheikh Khalifa Bin Zayed Al Nahayan . The country is made up of seven Emirates: Abu Dhabi, Dubai, Sharjah, Ras al Khaimah, Ajman, Umm Al Quwain, and Fujairah. Abu Dhabi and Dubai are the two main cities in the UAE.

- Climate

From May to September, the climate in the UAE is hot and humid with temperatures ranging from 40-45 Centigrade (104-113 Fahrenheit) and humidity in excess of 90%. In October through April, the temperature in the morning and late evening is cool, and midday temperature ranges from 20-35 Centigrade (68-77 Fahrenheit).The rainfall in UAE is very rare.

- Language Spoken

Arabic is the official language of the country; however, the English Language is very common due to the highly multicultural population. English is the business language in many government and private organizations.

- Currency

UAE currency is the dirham (AED or DHS) and is divided into 100 fils. The rate of exchange for US$1 is approximately AED 3.67. One dirham is equivalent to approximately $0.27.

- Time Zone

The UAE follows Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) plus 4 hours. Daylight savings time is not observed in the UAE.

- Religion & Ramadan

While the UAE is a Muslim-based country where most nationals are Sunni Muslims, the UAE is a country tolerant of other religions. Therefore, you will find Christian churches, Hindu Temples and other places of worship.

The UAE has many beautiful Masjeds (Mosques), however, Muslims may pray anywhere during prayer time. Muslims pray five (5) times a day based on the cycle of the sun. The Imam will make a public call to Muslims for prayer-time over public announcement systems, as early as around 4 a.m. and until the last prayer-time which may be as late as around 8:30 p.m.

Ramadan is the ninth month of the Muslim lunar calendar and is regarded as the holiest month of the year. Muslims believe that the Prophet Muhammad received his first revelations of the Qu'ran during this period. From that time, Muslims have observed this occasion by forgoing food, water and other worldly pleasures during the day for the entire month as a pillar of their faith.

The exact day for the start and end of Ramadan is based on the lunar cycle and is different each year. Thus, the start of Ramadan may differ from one country to another. Each year, Ramadan varies about 10 days earlier from the prior year. The evening of the sighting of a new moon signifies the start of the month of Ramadan, and fasting begins the next day. Muslims will observe strict fasting until the new moon is sighted again; thus, signaling the completion of one lunar cycle.

Those who are unable to fast during Ramadan are expected to make up the missed days at a later date. Exemption from fasting is made for:

- Children under the age of puberty, though young children are encouraged to fast as much as they can without any pressure from parents.
- People who are mentally incapacitated or not responsible for their actions.
- Sick people.
- Traveling people (for journeys over 50 miles).
- Pregnant women, nursing mothers, and women during menstruation.

During Ramadan, Muslims usually take two meals a day. The first meal is called sahoor, and the second meal is called iftar. Sahoor is taken about an hour before dawn and must be finished before the dawn prayer (Imsak Time). Iftar is broken at sunset with a beverage and a few dates, offering prayers, and sitting down to dinner.

In consideration of Ramadan, hours of operation for businesses are typically reduced. Therefore, if you need to conduct any business during Ramadan, always check to verify the adjusted hours of operation. You may also find it more difficult to schedule meetings, workshops, or seminars during this period.

Tips for Non-Muslims:

- Do not consume food/beverages in public and do not smoke in public during the day.

- All eating establishments will be closed until sunset but many stay open into the early morning hours.
- Most hotels will serve food in a location not in the public view during the daylight hours.
- Since cultural consciousness is also high during the month, non-Muslims should dress and behave modestly to avoid causing offence.

- Electrical Supply for Appliances

The electrical supply for appliances in the UAE is 220-240 volts, and 50 cycles. Outlet converters for laptop and most other electrical devices from other areas are available in grocery and electrical stores in Abu Dhabi.

- Living Together

In Muslim culture, and under UAE law, a non-married man and woman cannot live together. Thus, in order to live together legally, the couple must be married.

- Religious Holidays in the UAE

The two religious holidays (Eids) celebrated by Muslims are Eid al-Fitr and Eid al-Adha. Eid al-Fitr is at the end of Ramadan and people will be doing a great deal of shopping for new clothes, gifts, and celebratory foods. Eid al-Adha is the larger festival and starts approximately 70 days after Ramadan and marks the end of Hajj. In general, the government will announce the holiday and organizations may then decide which days will be the non-working holiday, paid or non-paid.

- Alcohol

Alcoholic drinks are available to non-Muslims in private clubs and restaurants in hotels. Non-Muslim expatriates with a residence visa may obtain liquor permits for purchase and consumption of alcohol in their homes, but they are not allowed to sell, serve or offer liquor to Muslims. Drinking or possession of alcohol without a Ministry of Interior liquor permit is illegal and could result in arrest and or fines and imprisonment.

Abu Dhabi

Introduction

Abu Dhabi is the federal capital of the United Arab Emirates and the largest of the seven emirates. The Emirate lies on the borders with the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, the Sultanate of Oman and the Arabian Gulf. The emirate comprises 200 islands and has 700 kilometres of coastline.

The city of Abu Dhabi is the headquarters for the President, the Prime Minister, most of the ministries and federal organizations, foreign embassies, Zayed Port and Abu Dhabi International Airport, as well as most oil companies. The Abu Dhabi Corniche (or waterfront) including its parks and fountains, is considered a major attraction in the city.

Abu Dhabi is known as a safe, clean and virtually crime free destination that helps businesses to thrive with a simplified “One Destination” approach and strong governmental support at the highest level.

Children’s Education

The Abu Dhabi Education Council is responsible for managing, guiding, adopting and implementing various educational development strategies and initiatives in Abu Dhabi as well as monitoring and supervising schools and academic institutes in the Emirate. On the below link, ADEC provides detailed information on public/private schools and higher education institutes across Abu Dhabi including tuition fees and performance reports. It should be highlighted that the PSUAD operates under the auspices of ADEC.

Daycare Centers

There are a significant number of centers providing daycare services to infants and toddlers across Abu Dhabi. On the below link, you will find a list of nurseries and daycare centers.

List of Daycare Centers

Domestic Help

There are two ways to employ a maid legally: (a) use professional maid services from a maid service company, or (b) recruit a maid yourself. Some companies in Abu Dhabi will recruit a maid on your behalf. The UAE Government requires the employer (sponsor) to pay a maid’s tax, equivalent to a year’s salary of the maid, to the UAE Government when applying for or renewing the maid’s visa. In addition, the sponsor has to pay the maid’s employment visa, health card, leave ticket every two years, and all incidental expenses including food. Maids are entitled to 15 days of paid leave for every year of service.

Single men are not allowed to sponsor a domestic helper. Having a part-time domestic helper is also illegal. Another option in getting a domestic helper is to sponsor somebody who has been released, not cancelled, from her previous employer. Released visas are transferable, while cancelled visas restrict the maid from entering the UAE within one year from the date of departure.

Additional information on maid service experiences shared by expatriates can be found in <http://dwc.hct.ac.ae/expatinfo/maids.htm>.

Work Week

Officially, the working week in the Paris Sorbonne University Abu Dhabi is from Sunday to Thursday, with Friday and Saturday as the weekend. PSUAD staff observe a seven-hour (9:00 am to 4:30 pm) work day with half an hour unpaid for lunch. Specific Faculty and Lecturer teaching hours are set by the Department Head and Deputy Vice Chancellor.

The working hours during Ramadan are shortened. Please refer to “Religion and Ramadan” in the UAE section for more details.

BEFORE ARRIVAL

This section of the Marhaba Guide provides you with information to help prepare for your move to the UAE.

Travel to UAE

The University will provide air travel for the employee and family up to three children to the UAE, from the country of origin as stipulated in the employment offer. Please note that the University medical insurance coverage for employee begins at two to three days from joining. Therefore, the University recommends prospective employees purchase any necessary personal travel and medical insurance prior to the start of their contract.

Visas and Sponsorships

Unless the new hire is a citizen of the UAE and GCC, they and their dependents will require visas to enter, live and work in the UAE. New hires are “sponsored” by the University and the cost of visas for new hires and their authorized dependents is covered by the University.

The minimum entry requirement for obtaining a visa in the United Arab Emirates (UAE) is that passports must be valid for at least 6 months before arrival, and have a minimum of 4 blank pages. This applies to both the new hire and their dependents.

There are two main parts to the visa process; the first step is obtaining an entry visa and the second relates to changing that entry visa into a residence visa. The University HR Team will handle both processes on behalf of the employee and their family. For details on converting the entry visa to a residence visa please go to the section on Residence Visa Application.

Entry Visa Application Process for New Hires

After finalizing pre-recruitment formalities and 1 month prior to your joining date, the University will proceed with the work entry visa process as follows:

- Request scanned copies of passport and color photos with white background in the size required for passports for the new hire and, where applicable, spouse and dependent children.
- The University PRO will submit an application to the Ministry of Interior for entry visa approval and process the work visa.
- Note that the entry visa process cannot take place if the new hire has any member of his/her family listed in their passport. In these cases the new hire has to firstly transfer the dependent to the spouse’s passport.
- Once your “Online Visa” gets ready, a copy will be sent to the new hire via email. The new hire should print out a colored copy of this and carry it with them as they go through passport control upon entry into the UAE.

- It is critical that the new hire advise passport control that they are entering on a work entry visa and ensure that the Immigration Officer doesn't stamp the passport as a visitor.
- After arrival in the UAE, the HR will help you to complete the health insurance , medical fitness screening, and Emirates ID to convert the work entry visa to a residence visa.

Entry Visa Application Process for Spouse and Children

- The new hire should advise the HR Department if they prefer their dependents to enter with them or whether they will be arriving at a later date. The University will try to accommodate this request where possible.
- For more information concerning visit visas to the UAE, please see the UAE Federal Government site. Note however, that visa regulations and costs are subject to change without notice and travelers should check with their travel agent or nearest UAE embassy before travelling.

Document Authentication

Authentication is a guarantee that the documents contain truthful and accurate information. Authenticated documents are required as a condition of employment with the PSUAD as they are necessary for obtaining residence visas in the UAE and for the employee's eligibility for family status. All costs associated with document authentication are borne by the employee and are not reimbursable.

You are encouraged to have these documents notarized in your home country of issue, as the process is simpler and less expensive. Below is the list of documents that should be authenticated:

- ✓ Academic Degree
- ✓ Marriages Certificate
- ✓ Children's Birth Certificates

The procedures with regard to document authentication in France is outlined below. Since most of the information was obtained from government websites, we advise you to verify the authentication procedures by contacting both your appropriate government offices and the UAE Embassy in your country as costs and processes are subject to changes. For documents originating from other countries, please contact the UAE Embassy in your country to determine the required authentication procedures. Please ensure that you use a reputable courier service when sending documents for authentications.

Authenticating Documents

The following are general procedures which may need to be followed:

Step 1

Original or a photocopy of the document endorsed by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in France.

Step 2

Get the documents translated to Arabic by a legal translator

Step 3

Original or a photocopy of the document endorsed by a UAE Consulate or Embassy.

Finalize Document Authentication in the UAE

In the event that you are unable to complete the document authentication in your home country, you may be able to carry out the process in the UAE but it is generally more complicated. First, obtain endorsement from the employee's embassy or consulate in the UAE (please verify the authentication process with your respective country's Consulate prior to your arrival in the UAE). Secondly, have the document attested by the UAE Ministry of Foreign Affairs in the UAE.

Do note that finalizing document authentication in the UAE may result in a delay in processing residence visa(s) for family member(s).

Documents to Bring to the UAE

The following copies of authenticated documents must be submitted to the HR department upon your arrival in the UAE. PSUAD will only keep a photocopy of the authenticated documents, and all original copies will be returned to the employee:

- Highest Degree
- Marriage Certificate (if applicable)
- Children's Birth Certificates (if applicable)
- Divorce Decree or Spouse's Death Certificate (if applicable)
- Divorced mothers who want to sponsor their child(ren) in UAE must produce an authenticated document signed by the child(ren)'s father stating that he authorizes the mother to sponsor the child(ren) for residence in UAE. (Note: These italicized words must be included in the document). Failure to produce an authenticated document may lead to a costly complication resulting in the mother sending the child(ren) back to the country of origin, at his or her own expense. If you have adopted children, be sure to inform your HR representative so that he or she can advise you about the UAE requirements regarding adopted children.

In addition to the authenticated documents listed above, the following additional documents are required:

- Dependent(s)' school reports
- 4 color photos of self in the size required for passports
- 4 color photos in the size required for passports, of spouse (where applicable)
- 4 color photos in the size required for passports, of each dependent(s) (where applicable)

Please note that color photos in the size required for passports must not be computer generated.

Effective July 1, 2008, the UAE Federal Law No. 7/2008 mandated that people renewing/applying for residence or employment visa have to undergo a number of medical fitness screenings and tests for diseases:

- HIV
- Hepatitis B
- Syphilis
- Leprosy
- Tuberculosis

Please note that if a person is found unfit and suffering from any of the diseases noted above he or she is likely to be sent back to his or her home country. As such, you are strongly encouraged to review these categories with your family physician prior to moving to the UAE.

HR staff will book your appointment and take you to do the test.

2. Emirates Identity Card

Who Should Enrol

The UAE Government requires all expatriates and UAE nationals who are lawfully living in the country to register and obtain an Emirates Identity Card. This requirement applies irrespective of age.

Valid Period of the Card

For UAE Nationals, the card is valid for 5 years. For UAE children the card must be renewed once the child reaches 15 years old. For residents from the GCC, the card may be valid for a maximum of 5 years. For expatriates from other countries, the validity of the card depends on the validity of his or her residency permit in the UAE. Thus, if the expatriate's residence visa is cancelled, the card will expire automatically. If the expatriate's residence visa is renewed, the card will also be renewed or reactivated.

Further usage of the card is listed in the EIDA website.

Driving

Driving License

The UAE Government provides drivers licenses to drivers from many western countries without the need for a drivers exam. If you have a valid driving license from your home country and you are a citizen of the UK, Australia, New Zealand, or a European or North American country, the process for obtaining a UAE driver's license is quite simple.

If, however, your license is not from one of the recognized countries, or you do not currently have a valid driver's license from your home country, you will need to take lessons and pass an examination.

Please visit the following website for further details on applying: UAE driver's license

Traffic Rules in the UAE

In the UAE, vehicles are driven on the right-hand side (similar to France, the United States and Canada). Abu Dhabi is a city with safe roads and clear traffic signs. The "Safety Seat Belt Law" applies in the UAE. Children aged 10 years and under are required to ride in the backseat. The UAE Traffic Authority has zero tolerance for driving under consumption of alcohol. The blood alcohol limit in UAE is 0.0 and the penalty is jail and/or a 20,000 AED fine.

Under UAE law, if a driver causes the death or injury of another person accidentally or intentionally in a car accident, and was found guilty under criminal procedure or legally responsible for committing a wrongful act, offence or crime, he or she will have to pay diya or blood money. A blood money of the amount of 100,000 AED applies to a female victim, and 200,000 AED applies to a male victim (please note that the blood money amount may be subjected to change without notice). The judge shall make the final decision on the amount to compensate. The objective of the blood money is to compensate the victim's family regardless of his or her religion or nationality. This liability feature is included in most vehicle insurance policies.

The Abu Dhabi government site offers an extensive list of traffic rules and road safety.

Pre-owned Vehicle

- ✓ Ensure that the seller's loan on the car has been paid in full by requesting a letter from the seller's bank

Vehicle Insurance

You may either purchase vehicle insurance through a car dealer or locate an insurance company yourself. Some insurance companies do go insolvent. So be aware and get the right deal at the best available price. Be sure to check that your vehicle insurance includes unlimited mileage, off-road driving (for 4wd), full insurance including liability insurance especially death or injury of another person in a car accident. If you plan on traveling to Oman you should also ask for this additional coverage. Finally, please note that if you drink and drive, and have an accident, you will not be insured again.

Vehicle Registration and Licensing

Please refer to the Abu Dhabi Police website for details on registering and licensing new or second-hand vehicles, and registration renewal. When purchasing a car from a private individual, ensure that the seller is willing to accompany you to the Registration Center. One of the conditions to pass the car re-registration test is no outstanding traffic violation fines. At the same time, if the seller's car is financed by a bank, request a bank letter from the seller that the car loan has been fully paid.

Vehicle Accidents

In the event of a car accident, do not leave the scene of the accident. If possible, move your car immediately to prevent a traffic jam before calling the police (telephone number: 999).
