The Bachelor in Economics and Management is an exclusive three-year multidisciplinary degree taught in French, organised and delivered by the University of Paris (Université de Paris).

The extensive scope of this degree provides students with a solid foundation in mathematics and statistics, control of economic quantitative techniques and scientific management methods (human resources and accounting) and marketing in addition to the legal aspects related to the structure and activities of companies.

For the first two years of the programme, students will get acquainted with the theoretical and statistical tools of economics and management and simultaneously enhance their basic historical and institutional knowledge. In the third year, they will explore how this scientific knowledge can be applied and interpreted through several intensive courses such as international economy, industrial economics, the European economy, growth and economic policies, analytical accounting, marketing and financial management.

As language plays a major part in overcoming cultural challenges, this programme is enriched with one foreign language option (Arabic, Spanish, German, Chinese or Italian), in addition to English. Students will expand their cultural horizons and open new doors by developing their language skills.

The programme faculty are all internationally renowned professors whose teaching methodology goes beyond the traditional forms of teaching to ensure a balanced and well-rounded learning experience.

By the end of the programme, students will master the tools used in these disciplines to analyse real economic issues and challenges.

The curriculum follows the European ECTS system.

Admission requirements

To be eligible for this Bachelor’s degree, students must have the following:

- French Baccalaureate OR
- High School Diploma (or equivalent) AND a French Aptitude Certificate with a minimum score of B2 level (accepted certificates: DU issued by Sorbonne University, DELF, TEF, TCF and SELFEE)
