SELFEE-Sorbonne University French Language Certification: B2 and C1 Level Preparation Courses

The Faculty of Humanities at Sorbonne University in Paris offers students certifications that correspond to the five levels of language proficiency and knowledge of the French language in accordance with The Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). These certifications have been introduced since 1959 by the French Ministry of National Education and the French Ministry of Foreign Affairs in collaboration with the Faculty of Humanities in Paris for the test management and deliverance and are intended to validate students' level of French language as a foreign language. SELFEE certifications are valid for life and do not expire.

SELFEE-Sorbonne certifications are internationally recognised and offer students employment, further studies and travel opportunities. The B2 exam evaluates four linguistic skills (listening, writing, speaking and reading), as well as the level of grammar, morphology, and syntax of the students. The C1, C2 and C3 levels are focused on French for specific purposes and include a programme in literature.
